Met with [ ] DAD/BI to discuss the revision of two items on their records control schedule. In light of their experience since the initial schedule, they propose to reduce the retention period of NIS Manuscripts from 5 years to 6 months after publication. News:

There May Be A Fortune In Those Old Files!

A member of the Records Disposition Branch was being assisted by an employee of an Office to screen files and suggested that the old empty envelope be checked. Upon turning it up-side-down and with a little encouragement, out dropped an old, wrinkled, dirty, dollar bill. This old dollar would only have earned a few pennies tied up with many others like it at the bank, but the cost to Uncle Sam for his best protection in a fire-proof, 3-way combination safe, securely hidden from office employees among 60 pounds of old records was $37.68, a small fortune. The owner of this dollar (his name appeared on the attached Red Cross Contribution Card dated 1954) could not be contacted, so it has been decided to offer this old piece of paper to the next campaign.

PROJECTS STAFF

1. Contributions

- a. Completed the filing system project in the Office of the Chief, Graphics Register Division, and in the offices of his two Branch Chiefs. As a result of installing the Agency filing system in these offices and disposing of the equivalent of two drawers of inactive nonrecord material, about 20% more file space was gained in each office. This gain, together with recommended record keeping and records disposition practices, should eliminate the need for additional safe cabinets in the foreseeable future.
